SHOPPENAGON INN'S NEW ANNEX

17 ROOMS ADDED TO THIS POPULAR HOSTELRY.

Monday marked the opening day of the new Shoppenagon Inn Annex, located directly back of this well known hotel. It is complete with 17 rooms, nearly all of which are equipped with hot and cold running water. The rooms are of good size, with hardwood floors, and with new furnishings of mahogany finish. Each room is furnished with comfortable bed, dresser and chairs.

On the first floor there is a large reception room. Back of this is a suite of rooms that will be occupied by Manager Thos. Cassidy, and his family. A long hall runs full length of the building both downstairs and upstairs, making easy access to the rooms.

The rooms will be electric lighted and steam heated and will always be comfortable and cozy. This new enterprise is the property of Mr. Cassidy personally and he is deserving of great credit for his enterprise. With these added facilities to our hotel accommodations Grayling will be able to care for many visitors, and do so to their entire satisfaction. And there is no reason why this town should not be able to entertain good size conventions either in summer or winter. We have the hotel conveniences and places of interest that should be very attractive for convention purposes. We heartily congratulate Mr. Cassidy for his splendid efforts and feel assured that the public will join us in wishing him success.

TIDD SLAYER TAKEN IN GRAYLING

SPENT NIGHT IN RESERVATION HILLS.

Says He Don't Remember Having Shot Tidd. Was Dope Fiend.

Bruce Williams who was alleged to have killed Ernest F. Tidd, a Sharon hotel keeper, Tuesday night, July 24, was captured Friday night by Sheriff Jorgenson and Undersheriff Cody and Constable LaChapelle near Portage Lake, Michigan, about three miles west of Grayling.

Word had been passed out that Williams had started in the direction toward Grayling and local officers were on the look out for him. He was seen in Riverview Wednesday and was also in Grayling the same day and it was believed that he had left on a north-bound train that day and might get across the channel into Canada, and there would probably be little chance of getting him soon.

However Williams surprised the local officers when he was seen hitting the ties of the branch railroad leading from the Manistee & Northwestern railroad to the Military camp. He passed Collins' pavilion at about five p. m. He answered the description of Williams and Sheriff Jorgenson was telephoned. As Williams was reported to be heavily armed the Sheriff picked a posse of officers, and went prepared for trouble.

Undersheriff Ralph Hanna and Ben Yoder went to Collins' resort and followed the railroad track leading toward the junction where Sheriff Jorgenson and Undersheriff Cody and Constable LaChapelle walked out on the Manistee tracks from the depot until they came across the Section crew and there commanded the speed away that is used by the section men and were soon at the Y. Hardly had they left the car when they discovered Williams coming around the section house, that is used by the section men for storing tools and supplies. He was under cover of Cody's

BURROWS MARKET BETTER THAN EVER

Interior Remodeled and Painted and Electric Power Installed.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good and the blaze that gutted the interior of the Burrows market has made it possible to completely remodel the interior of the building making it more convenient of operation and up-to-date in sanitation.

The work rooms have all been rebuilt and nicely painted, and new modern machinery has been installed. And now, instead of a noisy, dirty gas engine for supplying power there is a fine new electric motor that is ready to start with the turn of a button. This is now one of the nicest markets in this part of the State, and the owner is to be congratulated upon his enterprise.

NEW IMPROVEMENTS AT MILITARY CAMP

TROOPS TO ARRIVE SATURDAY MORNING.

Six Advance Detachments Arrived This Morning.

When the Michigan National Guard arrive at the Hanson State Military reservation near Grayling, August 4th the officers and men will find the big camp fully prepared to receive them and to care for them throughout the training period. For several weeks past a large force of men have been busy getting the grounds and buildings in order.

The old officers and men who are familiar with the place will find a number of new features that will greatly facilitate handling the troops and supplies. Many new conveniences and comforts.

A 400 foot loading dock has been constructed beside the railroad track. This consists of reinforced concrete wall, filled in on one side with cinders so that wheel outfits, artillery, cavalry, etc., may be easily unloaded.

The new division headquarters are receiving their finishing touches. These are located east of the former brigade headquarters at the highest point along the camp grounds and commands a fine view of the camp and Lake Michigan. Besides the quarters for the officers there is a fine large mess shack fully equipped with tables, chairs, large refrigerator stove and necessary kitchen utensils. There is also a building equipped with shower baths and toilets. The buildings and grounds are electric lighted and water is supplied from an independent water system.

Near the old brigade headquarters there has been built a new mess shack for the headquarters company. Three new kitchens have been built for the Medical regiment, and ten new kitchens for the 13th Field Artillery. These latter are located near the west end of the camp. About a half mile of gravel road has been built along the line of company kitchens.

The target range has been undergoing a lot of repairs and contract has been let for the construction of a new ammunition building to replace the one that was destroyed by lightning and fire last spring.

The grounds are in fine condition and during the last few days men have been busy cutting the grass on the drill and parade grounds.

All these things have been accomplished since about July 1st. Lieut. Col. Leroy Pearson and his staff of assistants have been here for the past couple of weeks looking after the work. The former says that besides the advance detachments that will arrive on regular trains, thirteen special trains will be required for transporting the troops and their equipment from their home stations.

Six advance detachments are scheduled to arrive in camp Thursday morning. Everything else, except the field artillery and cavalry is scheduled to arrive Saturday morning, August 4th. The Field Artillery and Cavalry are scheduled to arrive August 8th.

One feature this year that the guard hasn't had since the war, said Col. Pearson, is that the cavalry will be fully equipped with horses. There will also be horses for the field artillery and for such infantry officers as may require them. All provisions and supplies are on hand except fresh meats which will arrive in due time for the troops.

Col. Leroy Pearson announces that parking places will be provided for anyone wishing to drive to the camp and witness the unloading of the troops Saturday morning. At this time the highways will be in use for the hauling of supplies and it will be necessary to keep them open for use of the troops, supply wagons, etc.

Board of Trade Invited.

Mr. Schumann, the Board of Trade members are always telling about helping the farmers. Now here is a good chance for them to prove just what they are willing to do for Mr. Farmer.

Help us make this picnic a success. Send someone to give a talk which will help the farmer poor or rich—alike.

The members and their families are invited for the day; some think the town people feel above the farmer and that is the reason no invitation has been sent specially to the Board of Trade members, ever before, or anyone else. But I am sending a special invitation to everybody in Grayling, and in fact all over the county—also Roscommon County.

Last year when we had our picnic, there was a big blow out in town for the soldiers and it hurt our picnic. The Grange picnic is about the only picnic held in this county, and there is no reason under the sun why everybody can't pull for the whole county, other counties have big get-together picnics which do some good.

But here, is just a few farmers who get together every year for a good time and try to keep the picnic going with no help only from a few Grangers.

Such things should interest the own people and business men as well as the farmer.

So if you people in town want to show that you are willing to come half way to keep Crawford County on the map, now is your chance, as we certainly won't feel like asking you to help us again.

Studebaker presents its complete line of 1924 models, announced a week ago, with the conviction that they will increase the prestige of the name Studebaker which, for 71 years, has stood for the best in transportation, quality and value of product.

Into these 1924 cars are built every proved feature in design, that makes for the comfort, convenience and safety of passengers, and many refinements that further enhance the value of a line of cars already highly perfected.

It is common knowledge in the steel industry that Studebaker uses only the highest grades of the finest steels. And the same is true of the electrical equipment, instruments, bearings, batteries, upholstery, finishing paints, tires and accessories used in Studebaker cars.

It is equally well known that Studebaker, with $90,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plant facilities, is unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give maximum intrinsic value for a given price.

Produced under these favorable conditions, the 1924 Studebakers are distinctly the finest cars and greatest values Studebaker ever offered.

These are not careless statements. They are facts that reflect the honesty and integrity of the manufacturer and its product just as they do the truth of Studebaker advertising.

The public has placed its confidence in Studebaker by accepting these facts, supported by the performance of Studebaker cars in owners' use. That's why Studebaker sales for the past six years have increased progressively each year and sales for the first six months of 1923 of 81,880 cars broke all six months' records.

Studebaker never cheapens quality to meet competition. The name Studebaker stands for satisfaction and service.

The mare took the road river water about her fetlocks with a little shiver, wading in to the girls, sitting to a deep pool where she had to swim a few strokes before she found crabs under her hoofs and scrambled out. Suddenly, while Sandy hesitated how best to arrange his patrol, a horse came, shivering with sweat, tired to its limit, staggering in its stride, the rider hunched in the saddle more like a sack of wheat than a man.

Before Sandy could turn the mare toward them, three riders burst from the trees like bolts from a crossbow, spurring their mounts, the two in the lead swinging lariats. They divided, one to either side of the foundering black stallion, one in the rear, galloping, angling in. The ropes slithered out, the loops seemed to hang like suspended rings of wire for a second before they seethed down, fast and true, about the neck and shoulders of the black's rider. They tightened, the lariats snubbed to the saddle horns, the horses sliding with flattened pasterns. The black lunged on, pitched forward as it was relieved of a sudden weight and its rider jerked backward from the saddle, hands claving at the ropes that choked his gullet, wrenching, sinking deep, shutting off air and light with a horrid taste of blood and the noise of their driving waters.

The ropes wheeled their might and galloped back toward the woods, the limp body of their victim flung, bounding over the ground. The third rider to meet Sandy. It was Brandon. He halted Sandy with surprise.

"How'd you happen here this time of night, Brandon? Not looking for me?"

"No. I was looking for the man you've just caught. I was about a minute too late."

Brandon glanced curiously at Sandy, caught by the grim note in his voice. But he made no comment. "Sorry if I spoiled your private vendetta, Brandon. You can have him, what's left of him if you want. We were going to swing him from a tree with a cord on his chest presenting him to Herford county, with our compliments. As it is, Brandon, I'd be relieved if you'd keep out of this on a Friday. Even forgetting you'd not be within our jurisdiction, we've done some cleaning up tonight that we might have to explain if we stayed too long in the state. We got the goods on Plimsoll, one of his men whose girl Plimsoll had stolen helped us to pin them on him. We met him at Herford. I'm going to send the facts and proofs to your authorities. They may not approve of them, but these days, but I wouldn't regret and we did. I don't fancy that's better to us. He wasn't worth the ropes he spoiled. Just as well you kept out of the mix-up."

Sandy said nothing. There was no need to mention Molly's adventure.

"Want to be sure it's him?" asked Brandon.

The body of Plimsoll lay at the foot of a big pine. The loops were still tight about his neck. One of the ropes had been tossed over a branch. The two men had dismounted. They nodded to Sandy as he came up with Brandon. They were horse owners, responsible men, who considered they had administered justice, who felt no more qualms concerning the dead man than if his body had been the carcass of a slaughtered steer.

"Waiting for the rest of the boys to come up," said Brandon. "Well, hit the trail home tonight. Brandon wants to identify the body boys."

Sandy looked down at the contorted, blackened face, and his disappointment at having been forestalled saddened down. The gambler's features had not been made plain by death; they still held much of the horror of the last moments of that relentless chase, his horse falling under him, foreknowledge of sudden death and the whistling noise of the jerk into eternity. It was a thing to be forgotten, a nightmare that had nothing to do with the new day ahead.

"I'm riding back to Three Star," found him hunched to a tree. "Good night, Brandon." He left them staring after their quarry and turned the willing mare toward home. Brandon settled down on him under the stars that were falling, the moon below the hills when he rode into the home corral.

A figure was perched upon the fence, waiting. It was Molly, and she leaped down almost into his arms as he sprang from the mare. In the gray dawn her face seemed drawn and weary. There were the blue shadows under the eyes that he remembered seeing there the time they had ridden over the Pass of the Goats. She came close to him, her hands up against his chest.

"You're safe, Sandy. Safe!"

"I was too late," he said. "Brandon's men had been ahead of me."

"I'm so glad, Sandy. Your hands are clean of his blood. They are my hands now, Sandy."

He swept her up to him, kissing her mouth and feeling the eager pressure of her lips, catching all with full meaning. A streak of rose glowed in the east behind the amethyst peaks. Her face reflected it like a mirror. "I don't have to go back East," she said presently. They had left the corral and were under the big cottonwoods by Patrick Casey's grave. "Do it?"

"I don't reckon you can, even if you wanted to," answered Sandy. "I forgot to tell you, Molly, that you're busted, so far as the mine is concerned. Listen."

She laughed when he finished speaking.

"Is that all?" She patted the turf on the green mound. "I'm sorry, Daddy, for you, it didn't pan out big. But I guess what you wanted most was my happiness—and I've got that." She turned to Sandy. The big bell of the ranch boomed brassy. Molly put her hand in Sandy's. "It may be most unfortunate, Sandy dear," she said, "but I'm hungry. Let's go in to breakfast."

CHAPTER XXII

The Very End.

There was a council held later that day, that was almost a council of war. Sandy was in the chair, Morrison and Sam present, Molly the indignant speaker-in-chief.

"I'm very much ashamed of all of you," she said. "An agreement is an agreement, and we were to share as we arranged. We shook hands upon it. I've lost three times as much as any one of you as it is. I haven't spent all of it. Sandy tells me."

"I've got to accept Sandy's share of it, I suppose, because it goes with Sandy. As for you, Sam Manning, you'll need your third when you marry Kate Nicholson."

"Soda-Water Sam gasped. "Marry Kate Nicholson?"

"Certainly. She expects you to."

"She—Molly, it ain't no joking matter with me. She wouldn't look at a rough-billed cuss like me."

"You ask her, Sammy. Mormon I suppose you'd like to have her until you find out about that third wife. I hope the fourth time will be the charm. It will if you marry Miranda Barry."

"You're sure talkin' like a matrimonial-mad-dog, Molly," said Morrison. "I sure think a sight of Miranda. She's different from my first three. They all married me, but you're lookin' out for them. It's Mirandy can be persuaded to take me if it becoms she is willing to look after me. She loves I know it," he added, sheepishly.

"Then the meeting is closed," said Molly. "I accept your apologies and you keep your money."

Morrison and Sam rose. With a glance at each other that ended in a wink, they left the room. Molly turned to Sandy.

A Figure Was Perched Upon the Fence, Waiting.

"You didn't give me back my luck, piece, Sandy."

"What does a man want with a luck-piece?"

"She would like it made into an engagement ring, Sandy."

"Why not a wedding ring, Molly, Molly mine?"

[THE END]

DEAF MAN IN CARD GAME

At These Bridge Contests There Are No "Post Mortems," but Highly Desirable Silence.

If there were a competition for the bridge game that causes nearest persons to drop out of the room, it would be one of the Long Island trials could gather a large number of votes on this platform: "We have no post mortems."

One of the four is deaf and dumb and his perpetual silence induces the other three to abstain from "Now, if he had started on the clubs" or similar remarks. Besides, a three-handed post mortem is no post mortem, the scores a New York Sun writer.

The sign language of bidding is simple and there is none of this "I thought you said yes" stuff. A smile is the signal by a scowling motion with the hand, a heart by patting to the handkerchief pocket, a diamond by tapping the necktie and a club by an aggressive stroke with the clenched fist.

The number of tricks bid is signified by raising the fingers of the hand, a double by having the eyes on the table and raising both hands as in blessing, another double by repeating this gesture and a pass by tapping on the table.

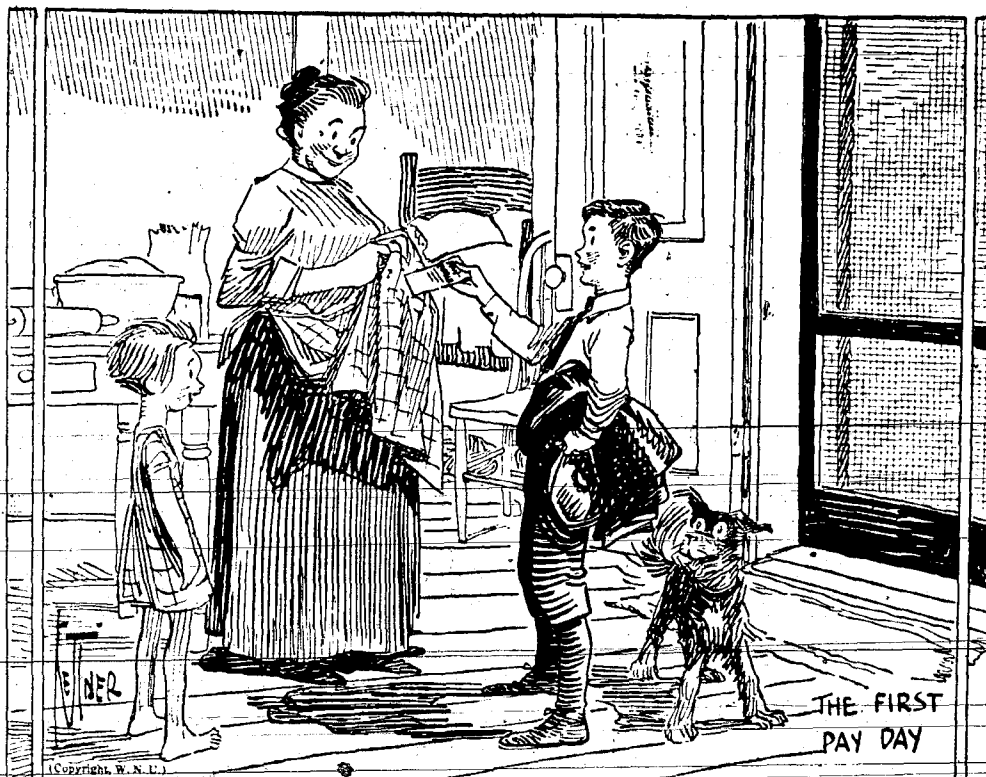

Of course an alibi is possible, such as "Gee, I thought you were pointing to your heart, not your necktie," but one-third of the time your partner cannot hear you, so you get in the congenial habit of keeping still.

Revival of Wood Engraving.

The art of wood engraving is very old. When it was rare to find a prince who could write, little woodcuts for testing documents were in use in Europe. But before that the Chinese had invented the art. In modern times the woodcut has been submerged beneath other methods of reproducing drawings and photographs, but the art is now being kept delightfully alive by the Society of Wood Engravers of London.

Who Says They Don't?

But It's Some Game, Just the Same

Manners and the Motor

The Victorian era undoubtedly had its faults but it's passing has taken away a few things which the world would do better to retain. For instance:

The other afternoon three elegantly dressed young gentlemen, driving up Woodward avenue in a large open automobile, espied a young lady of their acquaintance being taken northward in a street car. They moved over under her window, attracted her attention by several blasts of their horn and, by signs and nods, indicated that she should alight at the next stop and climb in with them.

This she did and the last the writer saw was the four of them howling merrily along in earnest, but obviously very juvenile, conversation.

But—and this is the point of the story—during all these goings-on not one of the elegantly dressed young gentlemen removed his hat.—Detroit News.

Stamp Collectors' Fakers' Victims. Forging of rare postage stamps for collectors' albums is a business of large proportions. Hundreds of false stamps are placed on the market every year, most of them being bought by unwary collectors.

Value of Conventions. One aspect of conventions which people who decline against them have right of it that conventions make both joy and suffering easier to bear in a becoming manner.—Joseph Conrad.

DAIRY

Some Requirements for Right Start of Calves

The dairy calf six to eight months old should be provided with salt. It is best to keep a small box in the calf pen or stall with salt in it at all times. The calf will then take just what is needed.

More than 50 per cent of the calf's body is made up of water; and for digesting the feed, regulating the body temperature, and other body purposes the calf needs 4 to 6 gallons of clean, fresh water every day. So the club boy should see that his calf has all the water it wants and that it is watered during warm days three times.

Sunshine is necessary for normal growth of the calf, but like most good things the calf can get too much; therefore, see that your pasture has plenty of shade to which the calf can go to lie down and chew its cud during the heat of the day.

When the dairy calf is weaned from skim milk, it should be eating grains and hay well. A good legume hay, like alfalfa, peavine, soy bean, or lespedeza, should be fed. This hay is necessary to furnish minerals to build bone, to supply protein for muscle building, and to furnish bulk for developing large feed capacity.

During the "dry season" a liberal use of the curry comb and brush will help keep the hair silky and the skin oily, both of which will tend to keep off flies.

Teach the calf to lead by the halter this summer. The best way to do this is to lead the calf to pasture each morning and back to the barn at night.

Tuberculosis Introduced Into Healthy Dairy Herd

Tuberculosis may be introduced into a healthy herd by any of the following means:

By the addition of an animal that is affected with the disease; therefore animals should be purchased only from herds known to be free from tuberculosis, or from herds under supervision for the eradication of the disease.

By feeding calves with milk or other dairy products from tuberculous cows; this frequently occurs where the owner purchases mixed skim milk from the creamery and feeds it to his calves without first making it safe by boiling or pasteurization.

By showing cattle at fairs and exhibitions; reports have indicated that numerous herds have become infected through mingling with infected cattle at shows or by occupying infected premises.

The shipment of animals in cars which have recently carried diseased cattle and which have not been disinfected properly.

Community pastures; pastures in which tuberculous cattle are allowed to graze are a source of danger.

In most cases the outward appearance of the animal bears no relation to the degree of infection. The disease frequently develops so slowly that in some cases it may be months or even longer before any symptoms are shown; therefore be on the safe side and have your herd tested.

Cows Require Material for Production of Milk

To keep the summer milk checks up to normal, the cows require a little special attention at this time of the year. In spite of good pastures, grass is apt to be tough and not nearly so appetizing as it was in May or June. Hence the cows are going to stand around in the shade instead of putting away material for milk production.

This all means that the cows need a little grain at milking time during the late summer months and a little silage, too, if you have it. Green oats and peas or green corn are very good, as well as many other forage crops, cut green and fed during milking time. Here's a good grain mixture to be used while the cows are on pasture:

200 lbs. corn meal
150 lbs. cottonseed meal
150 lbs. ground oats
150 lbs. gluten feed

Feed the grain mixture according to the way the cow responds. If a cow will not respond to grain feeding in the summer, she isn't worth keeping.

At the New Jersey agricultural experiment station the cows are being sprayed night and morning with a reliable spray that kills the flies. As a result, the cows stand better for milking and since they are not bothered with the flies they have time to eat their grain. Furthermore, when the milker is swatting flies and the cow is switching her tail around in his face he isn't apt to take much interest in how much milk the cow gives.

A good fly spray is a good investment.

Unprofitable Cows Kept Simply for Amusement

Not over a third of the so-called dairy cows of the United States are profitable to their owners. Ten million "loner" cows are milked whose yield is worth less than their feed. Their owners seem to keep them for the sole purpose of milking them fourteen times a week, cleaning out after them, and otherwise enjoying their society.

Care for Cows in Summer.

Good care of cows in the form of extra feed and protection from heat and flies during the summer pays in better condition and higher production when they go into the barn for the winter. Improvement association records show.

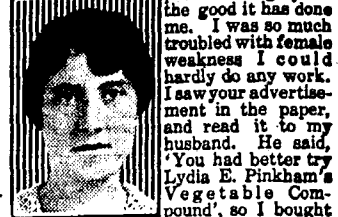

Plan for Green Feed.

If you are in the dairy business, plan to have a continuous supply of green feed—pastures, cutting crops and silage—for your cows throughout the year.

GETTING BACK AT ADVISER

Young Athlete Thought He Had Something Coming, and Decided to Improve the Occasion.

Walter Camp told at a New Haven dinner a story with a moral.

"A brawny young chap," he said, "came to a doctor to have a broken collarbone set. While the doctor worked his patient gave him advice in a steady stream.

"Be careful there," he would say. "Raise the arm a little higher. Not like that? Heavens, are you losing your head?"

"The doctor was bewildered, but he got the bone set finally and started to bandage the patient up.

"Tighten on that bandage." The stream of comment began to flow again. "Tighten, I tell you. There, that's better. Now—a pin! Are you deaf? Ah—"

"But the doctor had by this time lost patience.

"Who and what are you?" he shouted savagely. "Are you drunk, or crazy, or what?"

"No, doc," said the young man with a pleasant smile. "I'm just the new back of the football team, and that's the way you dope me up with unsolicited advice every blasted game."

Noisiest Ball Fan

Baltimore boasts of the noisiest baseball fan. Armed with an auto horn he invades the Oriole ball park and does his loudest to distract the visiting pitcher or batter at a critical moment. Recently he became so boisterous that the manager of the Buffalo team sent an official protest to President Toole of the International League. The executive sent word to his umpires to see that the auto horn was not resorted to by the visiting players' dugout.

HIGH EXHIBITION TRAIN COMING HERE.

The schedule of stops to be made in this State by the Service-Progress Special, the big eleven-unit museum train now touring 12,000 miles of the New York Central lines was announced at the executive offices of the Michigan Central Railroad at Detroit today.

Grayling is included and the huge traveling railroad exhibition will be here on that day, opened to all visitors between 7:00 and 10:00 o'clock in the evening.

One hundred years of railroad progress in the United States is shown by the historic exhibits, equipment and priceless relics and models contained in and making up the train, which shows rail development and its relation to industry and agriculture.

Engine "8000" of the Michigan Central Railroad, representing the last word in modern freight engines, hauls the train on portions of the road upon which this engine, the latest "Mikado" for its weight the most powerful in the world, may operate with safety.

Famous "Engine 999", the World's Fair engine, which still holds the unequalled speed record of 112.5 miles per hour for locomotives, follows "No. 8000", and also hauls the train where "No. 8000" cannot operate. The De Witt-Clinton engine and coaches of 1831, the first New York Central Lines train completes the historic group of locomotives with the Special.

Other exhibits including the famous Warther working Engine Models showing every step in locomotive progress from the earliest and crudest forms of the 17th Century to the latest of today. The Warther Models are entirely hand-carved of wood, ivory, bone and pearl, and are said to be the finest specimens of hand-carving in the world as well as the most accurate.

The vital importance of the growth of government indebtedness and taxation and its alarming growth to everyone is vividly illustrated in "Mrs. Jarley's Tax Works." The "Tax Works" consists of a series of striking pictures in blazing colors which concisely tell what the cost of government means to the individual.

The "Service-Progress Special" is being operated by the New York Central Lines in direct response to requests made to President A. H. Smith by President O. E. Bradford of the American Farm Bureau Federation and Master S. J. Lowell of the National Grange.

Hear Congressman Woodruff and Senator Karcher at the Court yard tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

We are pleased to submit to our readers a comprehensive report of the receipts and expenditures of Grayling school district number 1, as presented by Secretary M. A. Bates. The report appears on the last page.

Supt. and Mrs. B. E. Smith returned home Friday evening from a vacation trip that took them to Tecumseh, Toledo and other places. They were away about two weeks, and were accompanied home by Mrs. Smith, mother, who is their guest for several days.

Henry Peets of Chubbogyan, who has been in the city the past few weeks assisting in the installation of the machinery in the new Laundry, will remain here for the month of August to assist in the work.

Wayne Ewalt, printing office devil of the AVALANCHE left Friday night for Belting and Lapeer to spend a few days visiting relatives, and on Wednesday he was to return to Camp Center where he will go to a month's military training for Uncle Sam. Wayne is not quite 17 years of age and stands six feet tall. He is one of the kind of young men who believes in doing things that are worth while.

Some things are simply inexplicable, and among them is that recent years from now the present crop of flappers will complain that their daughters are immature.

SALE BILLS TO YEARS AGO SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT.

A local citizen recently handed to the AVALANCHE the following copy of an auction bill published twenty years ago in the Chenoa Clipper-Times of Kentucky. We notice that slavery and whiskey both went together.

"Having sold my farm and intending to move to Missouri, I will sell at public sale, 1 mile west and 4 miles south of Harrisburg, Ky., on Saturday September 26, 1850, the following described property, to-wit:

"One buck nigger 25 years, wt. 210 pounds; 4 nigger wenches from 18 to 24 years old; 3 nigger boys 6 years old; 13 nigger hoes; 1 fine sled; 6 yoke of oxen, broke; 10 ox yokes with hickory bows; 2 ox carts with 6 inch tires; 1 saddle pony 5 years old; 1 side saddle; 3 double shovel-plows; 10 and 12 inches 25 gallons whiskey in jugs; 100 gallons apple cider; 2 barrels good sorghum; 2 barrels soap; 2 barrels stout; 2 barrels nigger-whiskey; 1 tobacco, 2 years old. Sale will start at 10 sharp. Terms cash. I need the money." Col. A. Johnson, Auctioneer.

WOODRUFF AND KARCHER TALK AT B. OF T. LUNCHEON.

Tonight Will Address Gathering At Band Stand.

Members of Grayling Board of Trade were specially privileged today when Congressman Roy O. Woodruff and Senator Horatio S. Karcher gave short addresses at their luncheon at Shoppemagon Inn this noon. This is the first visit of Congressman Woodruff since the primary campaign of 1921 when he was opposed by Congressman Gilbert A. Currie, in which he was the victor.

Senator Karcher whose home is in Rose City spoke at the community picnic here last summer.

After enjoying a delicious luncheon, which was made especially pleasant by the presence of Schram's orchestra which played during the meal, President Holger F. Peterson introduced Congressman Woodruff.

The latter is serving his first term in the senate and told of some of the important matters that came up in the last session. He told his reasons for opposing the gas tax bill and also the "Governors' weight bill. It will be remembered that the gas bill was passed but vetoed by the governor. The opposition to the gas bill was largely from Detroit legislators. He criticized the Detroit Newspapers, saying they were the most "dangerous element we have in the State as far as public opinion is concerned. As a ranking member of the reapportionment committee of the Senate he was opposed in giving Detroit any greater representation. Because of the fact, he said, that a few regulars worked hard to try and stop vicious legislation, it was decided as the do-nothing Congress, he inferred, had to be neglected in order to prevent the passing of what he termed a vicious legislation.

Congressman Woodruff expressed his pleasure at being here, and said he had been wanting to visit Grayling for some time.

He spoke briefly about good roads and mentioned a bill that he introduced in Congress in 1922, carrying with it an expenditure of a billion dollars. He said in 20 years, which bill was the subject of much criticism and ridicule. Now, however, just such a program as was contained in his original bill is being carried out today.

He spoke favorably of reforestation of the unused lands of northern Michigan either by the State or Federal government.

Congressman Woodruff gave an interesting account of his experience with the Department of Justice in forcing that body to function in the prosecution of Trans committed during the war, in the overpayment of war contracts, etc.

Tonight Congressman Woodruff and Senator Karcher will address the people at the band stand in the court yard beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

U. S. FAIR SHOW AID TO FARMERS

PROGRESSIVE DAIRY METHODS WILL BE FEATURE OF EXHIBIT

TO HAVE LATEST INFORMATION

Heading the big dairy exhibit which is intended to assist Michigan farmers to greater production and more profits in their dairy work, the United States government is to erect 22 attractive booths at the $5,000 Michigan State Fair which will be held from August 31 to September 10.

Dairy herd improvement is taught with the view of encouraging farmers to raise pure bred stock so that they may have a double market, sales of milk and pure bred calves. Maps will show that the states having the greatest number of pure bred bulls are the states with the highest average milk production.

It will be shown as a result of investigation into the cost of milk production that the farmer spends over 55 cents for feed for each dollar worth of milk produced is losing money. Interesting relationships between the various factors of production, which show definitely the greater earning power of the high-producing cows, are also presented.

Extensive information will be supplied on the feeding of calves in various sections. An interesting bill of information will be the government's announcement of the finding of a meal that is a satisfactory substitute for milk.

Increasing milk production through herd management will be demonstrated for the benefit of the dairymen. Here it will be shown that milking three times a day instead of twice increased production 11.5 per cent. Box stalls, it will be shown, increase production 5 per cent as compared with stanchions, while exercise was proven to slightly increase the production of butter-fat and to increase feed consumption.

How to eliminate sludge flavor and odors will be explained as will the use of dairy products on the farm and methods of cleaning milking machines.

Scientific breeding of dairy cattle to predetermine the qualities of offspring will be one of the lessons taught in the movement for better cattle. Incidentally, the investigators have determined that nearly all the Holstein cattle in the United States are descended in a direct male line from five sires.

Cream, butter, condensed milk, pasteurization, dairy statistics, moving pictures, cow-testing, co-operative marketing, value of quality, international trade, and costs are also mentioned in the government program.

"This exhibit," said George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the fair, "is quite exhaustive and should prove of immense value to all those engaged in the production and sale of dairy products. It is new in nearly every detail and up to the minute in every way."

Take Time to think—you can do more work with your head than your feet.

ALLIES IN RUHR SEND REPLY

French and Belgium Answer England On Reparations Parley.

London—French and Belgian replies to the British reparations communication has been delivered to the foreign office.

Cour de St. Aulaire, and Baron Monnier, respectively French and Belgian ambassadors, left written, but not identical documents with Lord Curzon.

The Italian ambassador saw the British foreign secretary but submitted no note.

The light of publicity seems likely soon to be thrown on the present reparations negotiation through an article in the house of commons, which is to adjourn Thursday.

It is anticipated a Prime Minister Baldwin will outline the British policy. The fact that the German government weathered the threatening week end with its forecast of possible change to be brought about by the communists has caused British observers in the German capital to believe that "Chancellor Cuno" can hang on for another two months, even with condition continually growing worse, says an observer from Berlin.

The chancellor's resignation before the expiration of the present Allied reparations preparatory to answering Germany's latest reparations offer is not expected the message adds.

OFFER CONTROL IN COAL PRICES

Bituminous Operators and Fuel Commission Make Agreement.

Washington Bituminous coal operators gave assurance to the federal coal commission that through an emergency organization, they will meet the fuel needs of the country in the event of an anthracite strike.

Furthermore, they offered to agree to a price control arrangement similar to that placed in effect by Secretary Commerce Hoover last year.

On top of this the operators proposed a permanent plan be worked out by which information relative to costs of production, wages and earnings of operators, might be gathered by either the department of commerce or the interior department.

In proposing a voluntary arrangement along this line, the operators reversed the policy pursued when they refused to report costs to the federal trade commission and carried on a successful fight in the courts against it.

Extensive information will be supplied on the feeding of calves in various sections. An interesting bill of information will be the government's announcement of the finding of a meal that is a satisfactory substitute for milk.

SINGING HUSSAR BAND COMING TO STATE FAIR

A singing hussar band will be one of the musical features of the Michigan State Fair, which will be held from Aug. 31 to Sept. 10, according to the plan of George W. Dickinson.

"This is a real vaudeville act," Mr. Dickinson said, "and should prove a big attraction."

The famous Ninety-first Highlanders band of Glasgow, conducted by Lieut. H. A. Star, also will be with us this year. This band has proved very popular in past years and won many prizes abroad.

"Events concert band, a splendid organization, will be an added musical attraction this year."

"There will be plenty of music every day to make the crowds feel happy."

Auto Tourists Sure of Fun At State Fair

Rigid regulations for neatness, comfort, safety and enjoyment will feature the tourists' camp at the Michigan State Fair, Secretary Manager George W. Dickinson announced.

No Gypsy or other objectionable tourist will be allowed to camp within the grounds.

"Every auto tourist who drives through the fair gates with his sampling equipment will be assured a most enjoyable time," said J. H. Brown, who will be in charge of that feature.

"The camp will be in an ideal place and there will be every convenience. When the car owner drives in he will get tickets for one day for each member of his family. Then he will drive to the state assigned him in camp. Registration of the car owner and his family comes next."

Mrs. Ethelbert has accompanied her husband on seven sea voyages, which have taken her to all parts of the world.

Balloon Helps War on Gypsy Moth

Above is shown a view of the balloon sent to Hemlock, N. H., by the Department of Agriculture to aid in the fight on the gypsy moth which has been damaging and destroying crops. The balloon rises a hundred feet above the ground and, by means of a series of sprayers, covers the affected territory with a powder which kills off the moths. Twenty-five pounds of the powder is sprayed over one acre in five minutes.

Checks Up "Health by Radio" Talks

Without leaving his health lectures over the radio telephone, such as, "Do You Sleep Well?" and "How to Feed the Baby," they are checked up for accuracy by Dr. J. Emerson, the essayist, descended from eight generations of clergymen. Lafayette visited America in 1824-1825, and was received with enthusiasm. In earlier times the Eskimos lived as far south as the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Schools are being established in all Indian villages in the Mexican republic.

Robert Fulton invented the first sky-rocket. Indians used the stomach of a buffalo for a bag in which to boil their dinner. The people of the United States spend $200,000,000 a year for confectonary. Greenland is moving westward twenty yards a year, according to Colonel P. Jensen, Danish scientist.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE HAY RIDE

"I have a plan," said Bennie Brownie, "and it is a wonderful plan."

"What is it?" asked the other Brownies.

"Let us go for a hay ride," said Bennie.

"Oh, that would be such fun," the others said.

"When will we go?"

"Well," said Bennie, "I see that the farmer is planning to bring the hay from yonder field to the barn beyond."

"Perhaps if we hurry we can have a ride now. It is some little distance but we can get there if we hurry."

So the Brownies all hurried along and just before they reached the hay wagon Bennie Brownie supplied a great enormous suitcase which he had and handed every little Brownie a hay cart.

Now the hay carts were just the color of the hay and the Brownies put them on and pulled the hoods, which were attached to the carts, over their heads.

In this way they could not be seen. If any one came near them they put their arms up over their faces and their arms were covered, of course, by the special suits.

Well they did have such a jolly ride and when it was all over Bennie Brownie said: "Let's have a hay party tonight in the loft."

And the other Brownies thought it would be a splendid idea. For they had enjoyed their ride so much that they did want to jump up and down in the hay and play in it and throw it at each other and have some wonderful games.

"Let's invite the others to come," said Bennie Brownie.

"Oh, yes," the other Brownies shouted.

So Bennie Brownie and the other Brownies went around and asked the Fairy Queen and Princess Fairy Joy and Princess Fairy Twilight-Bell and Fairy-Violet and all of the other Fairies to come to the hay party.

Every one of the Fairies accepted. Then the Brownies asked, Peter Gnome and all of the other Gnomes and every Gnome accepted.

Next the Brownies invited the members of the Owl family and they all accepted.

They invited the members of the Booby family and they all came, too, for they were such jolly little creatures and not at all the horrible creatures which some gossips had made them out to be.

They wouldn't frighten children for anything. They weren't a single naughty Booby.

And yet they had heard people say that the Booby man would fetch a bad child.

They thought it was very mean to say such things about their family, and the Brownies had taken around many messages, whispering to people and asking them not to say such unkind things of a nice, jolly family.

Then the Brownies invited Elfin Elf and all the other Elves to come to the hay party and all of the Elves accepted.

They invited Old Mr. Giant to come and Old Mr. Giant said he would have to sit down most of the time for he was sure if he stood up he'd hit his head against a beam but that he would be delighted to come and that he would be careful.

They invited Witty Witch and she accepted with delight.

So they had their party and such a jolly party as it was.

They played hide-and-go-seek in the old barn and they made piles of hay into which they jumped.

They covered themselves up with hay for the joy of throwing it off again.

And Mr. Moon shone through a little old window which gave them all the light they had.

It was pretty dark even with Mr. Moon doing the best he could, but, as they said, they were lucky to have that little window through which Mr. Moon could shine.

And it was fun laying it so dark. They could just really manage to see each other very dimly.

There's nothing like a hay party, said the Fairy Queen as they were leaving after the party was all over. "It was a splendid party," they all shouted.

And Bennie Brownie was a very happy little Brownie to think that his party had been so jolly and such a huge success.

Geography Was Wrong

WHY YOU ARE WHAT YOU ARE

By EDNA PURDY WALSH

WHAT ARE THE SIGNS OF MUSIC?

If music has charms to soothe the savage it has even more power in building the bodies, heads and faces of those who are geniuses in music. Music in the spirit develops the faculty of taste—an area the size of a dime, located in the central part of the lateral forehead; close to the hair-line, just where the face rounds off to form the side head. It is one and one-quarter inches above the angle of the superciliary arch.

The musician has a strong development of the musical temperament, the vibratory capillary in his ears. The ear rim is very thin when music is very active, and sometimes almost translucent.

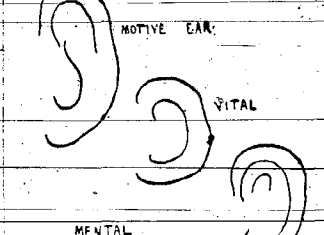

Fluffy hair is a usual accompaniment of the musical temperament, the vibratory capillary and musical, rising up and down on the scale as the individual speaks.

Most of the musical geniuses have foreheads very large in the side. Those of the strongly executive type have large lips, optimistic noses, and in the genius the upper eyelids are elevated in the center.

The wide forehead in the region of the nose brings skill, a delivery of feeling and a keen appreciation of color as well as sound.

DIFFERENT THOUGHTS MEAN DIFFERENT EARS

The first ear belongs to the ambitious business man, forging to the top. He has strong firmness in his upper back head, and generally a large and fairly long nose which accompany the motive temperament. No matter what activity he is engaged in, he is ambitious, and makes people feel the force he possesses in that field, providing, of course, his intelligence warrants it.

The second ear belongs to a more easy-going individual, whose flesh is softer than the muscular or bony man of the motive temperament. His chin will be larger and fatter, his lips redder, his hands warmer, and he will not have the "go get it" spirit of the motive man, but he makes an excellent manager or superintendent, conserving in the office, hotel or shop the money and things the motive man acquires.

The third ear belongs to the mental temperament, with large upper head, smaller chin, smaller and thinner hands, small thin neck, and often lacking in sufficient vitality to push through the many excellent features of his brain. His work lies in literary, artistic pursuits, advertising, clerical work, or construction work of a fine nature.

There is a principle in nature which builds the abnormal, irregular ear from the habit of abnormal thought and heredity. The first ear is that of Prerogative, the homodie degenerate, irregularity is marked in the criminal type, in the bony structure of the head.

Like the cat. He may have sensitive-ness in his back neck, but he is never loving.

The second ear is that of the foxy individual with secretiveness well developed in the region an inch above his ear. The pointed ear points directly to this faculty.

He has a great tendency to use the letter "S," spends much time watching everywhere, looking sideways, speaks in a whispering voice, with closed lips. He has a mysterious smile when talking, never trusts people—without positively knowing them. The outer angles of the eyebrows droop down on his eyes, often giving him a shrewd appearance.

With the pointed ear, other qualities in the head—lack of conscientiousness, lack of benevolence and veneration, will corroborate the accurate diagnosis of dishonesty.

WHAT CONTOURS MEAN

When the lines of the face are straight, as in the contour of the square-jawed, square-headed man whose bones are large and prominent, will predominate. If straight lines predominate in the face and head, will predominate in the mind, and the individual is a person of executive ability, construction and oftentimes invention.

The curved face with its harmonizing curved lines to the features indicates taste predominating in the individual, and possible artistic accomplishment if enough vitality and ambition are present.

Round lines, however, indicate emotion. The large, full eye as the emotional eye is prominent, and the lids are rounded over the eye. Round lines are predominant in the vital temperament where the hands are soft and round, the feet small, the bones well padded and the lips red. Even the chin and nose of the vital temperament individual are rounded. He is kind, jolly, often loses his temper, but seems no harm, and seldom holds a grudge. He does not possess the constructive ability of the large-boned individual with square lines, and salesmanship is more to his liking.

EMOTION

LIPS TELL MORE THAN WORDS

One never sees the mouth of firmness and self-esteem as outlined above, in the social gathering, at the public or spending much time in purely friendly ways, if there is business to attend to, business motive is behind his friendships.

The lips of friendship are curved, instead of straight, and as a rule have distinct creases across them. The back head is prominent and the hand-shake is warm and prolonged. A child with friendship in his lips responds better to love than to the rod.

The lips that are pursed out as if in a steady kissing position are very impulsive lips. They generally belong to the vital temperament, which is quick to impulses of kindness unless the unselfish faculties are missing. The foods the vital temperament eats most of are the carbohydrates—the starches and sweets, peas, rice, rapeseed and pastry. They are quickly burned and create impulsiveness, a long as the individual is in health, but overeating of these causes stupidity, flinching and auto-intoxication.

The upper lip of the ambitious mouth is held back firmly at the corners.

Danced Themselves into Frenzy.

There is nothing new about the endurance dance. In 1794, when peasant and noble for leagues about gathered at the festival of St. John, at Aix-la-Chapelle, a fellow in money danced over the cobblestones. Presently he was joined by a beggar so that the two danced companionably and teased and pranked. Then a stout burgher hurled his bulk into the revel. A conflagration of dancing without apparent reason, was kindled, and before the sun declined the streets were thronged with dancing thousands. Indeed, so runs the chronicle, they "commenced dancing in a wild and frantic manner, many losing entire control over themselves, and continuing to dance until dropping down from fatigue, and some, in a moment of frenzy, dashing out their brains against walls."

With the Wisdom of the Ages.

A cultivated mind is, so to speak, the storehouse of all the wisdom of previous generations.—Montaigne.

Decreasing Typhoid

Typhoid fever as a cause of death has almost disappeared in the cities of the country, where the water supply and the sanitation can be controlled. Last year in the larger cities the death rate from typhoid fell to 2.45 to 100,000, less than a sixth of what it was twelve years ago. Back in 1882 it was about 60 to the 100,000. The improvement has not been so rapid in rural districts, but the sitution was never so bad there as it used to be in the cities. There is a wonderful opportunity for medical officers and health boards in rural districts to wage a campaign against typhoid; for there is no disease that is more surely preventable.—Youth's Companion.

Factories Poorly Lighted.

Lighting experts state that only 2 per cent of the factories of the United States are adequately lighted—in other words 80 per cent are illuminated by low normal.

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE A NECESSITY

Howell Company Has a Remarkable Growth

A review of last year's fatal accidents shows 81 per cent of the total number of people killed by automobiles were pedestrians. 66 per cent of the pedestrians killed were, according to the coroner's verdict, more careless and negligent than the drivers. It is said that 80 per cent of the pedestrians killed were killed while jay-walking. Automobile owners find that with the increased traffic there is great danger of accidents and it is important to keep insured so as to get the service of able adjusters and investigators to determine who was at fault.

The Citizens' Mutual Automobile Insurance company of Howell has had a remarkable growth. During the first six months of the year 1922 the increase in new business was 65 per cent, while the increase in net assets in comparison with a year ago was 83 per cent. On July 1st the company had total assets of over $350,000.

It has been the policy of the company to pay its claims promptly and to investigate and determine the rights in serious cases. The company has found that the majority of people are fair, but in cases where the injuries are exaggerated or where the claim is without merit, the company is prepared to make the contest in behalf of its policy-holder. Many of the leading men of the state such as ex-Governor Rich, the late Governor Warner, in fact, over 40,000 of the leading business men and farmers of the state are insured in this company.

Old Coder Quite Unable to See Sense, or Humor in Remark Made by Dad Donner

"I belong to an unorganized club of paralytics," said the Old Coder of Kentonville. "Every member has at some time had a stroke. We meet whenever and wherever we happen to, and enjoy ourselves by slyly, each other up while talking about nothing in particular. Then we go our several ways, each gilded in his own mind that every one of the others shows more signs of his afflictions than he himself does. And, confound it, just yesterday, old Dad Donner sympathized with me for looking so much worse than he does. As a matter of fact I look just about as healthy and sturdy as I ever did, while everybody says old Dad is almost ready to enter into the grave.—Kansas City Star.

His Sensations.

Robert went up in an airplane with his uncle, and when he came down we asked him how it felt to be up in the air. His uncle had said he never moved.

"Oh, I felt just like my brother wouldn't breathe," he said.—Exchange.
